Dear Dr. Cuddy,

as my subbing doctor you will meet Jessica Boyd, she presented last week complaining about passing out and having knee pain. After a long conversation, partly without her father, she came up with admitting to occasional binge eating and vomiting. As she has a sports competition coming up, she does a lot of training and tries to reduce her food. Her knee pain occurs after training. Also she is sexually active without always using protection.

She is not comfortable talking about her sexual activity. Also she does not want her father to know about this or her bulimic behavior. I already talked to her about birth control, but I think she hasn't really considered it yet. Maybe she will be more confident on talking about this to a woman.

Her social surrounding is stable, only her father pushes her into sports and is her trainer. I suspect her of using drugs, although I couldn't figure out whether she actually uses any.

I diagnosed her with bulimic behaviour. She should see both, a psychiatrist and a dietitian.

We should be careful, she doesn't overexercise. She needs to be made aware of how dangerous her behaviour is and pointed out to be an illness that needs to be treated. We also need to figure out what else she uses, laxatives etc.

She also needs a physical examination to be checked for STDs and to have some more information about protection and birth control.

Furthermore, I advised her to see a dentist as the vomiting might start to affect her teeth.

Please leave me detailed information of your examinations and treatment, as I am very worried about her.

With best regards

Dr. Merinstein

Also she is sexually active without using protection. She is not comfortable talking about her sexual activity. Also she does not want her father to know about this or her bulimic behavior. I already talked to her about birth control, but I think she hasn't really considered it yet. Maybe she will be more confident on talking about this to a woman. Her social surrounding is stable, only her father pushes her into sports and is her trainer. I suspect her of using drugs, although I didn't figure out whether she actually does use any. I diagnosed her with bulimic behaviour and think she needs to see a psychiatrist. She also needs a physical examination to be checked for STDs and to see a dentist. The main problem is her bulimia. We should be careful, she doesn't overexercise. She needs to be made aware of how dangerous her behaviour is and pointed out to be an illness that needs to be treated. With best regards Dr. Merinstein
